

SKYWARN APPRECIATION DAY IN HOUSTON

December 7 2002 the Houston/Galveston National Weather Service participated in the Skywarn Appreciation Day. The Tidelands Amateur Radio Society set up their travel trailer in our parking lot to operate out of. The City of Houston brought down their Mobile Emergency Communication Facility which was quite impressive. In addition the amateurs also operated out of the Houston/Galveston Weather Office using the equipment in place. A total of around 20 amateurs participated during the 24 hour test.

In addition to the communication going on there was plenty of food available for the radio operators and the NWS personnel as well. Sausage was available on Friday night while ribs, burgers, beans and more sausage was available on Saturday. It was the best attended SRD event at the NWS in Houston. As they say if you supply food the people will come.
